Sound suggestion for lunch between bank robberies

Crumbell's soup (Yech! Yech! Bad!)

Just home from robbing the first national bank. Before you knock off the second palace for a bowl of Crumbell's chicken noodle soup. It's mouldy, slimy and awful tasting. It brings back memories of the meals at Sing Sing or Alcatraz.

Soup this good just couldn't be Crumbell's

"ODD- A pastime for those who are desperate"

Well we made it, all the way to our second issue and we're still in business. This issue was completed sooner than expected and from now on we'll publish as soon as possible. This means we may publish more than four issues a year. We promise whatever happens ODD'll be out no less than four times a year. Now you'll be able to rot your mind more often, heh, heh. Alright now prepare yourself to read. Snuggle up nice and cozy in your favorite garbage can and begin fumbling through the pages of ODD. You'll find exclusive in this issue a daring exposé of America's institutes of higher learning, the real story of Frank and Stein, two German ODD scientists and a really revealing article on T.V. and real-life doctors. we find out if four out of five doctors really do recommend Bufferin.

Happy reading and horrible dreams.

SPECIAL REPORT DEPT. Our roving artist and writer has returned from the campus set with a revealing report exposing all the evils of P.S. 121... but since we're chicken to publish it we made him make up this story on...

COLLEGE

by S. Herring

"State College? No this is State Reformatory, the college is that group of buildings with the big sign 'condemned' on them."

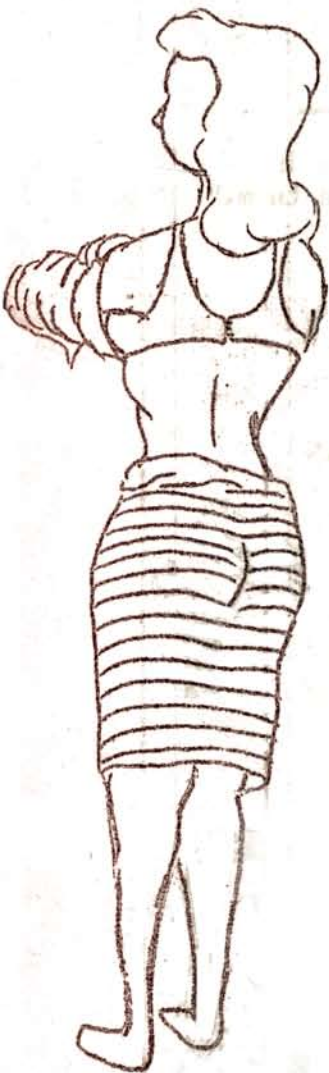

"A college education makes a man out of you. When you get on the college campus there's no more High School kid stuff. You learn responsibility, maturity, leadership, and respect of your peers and elders. Being a professor of Sociology, that's what I teach my students."

"They say girls go to college only to find a husband—I don't believe it. Personally, I am searching for the great pearls of knowledge...by the way, did you say you were married?"

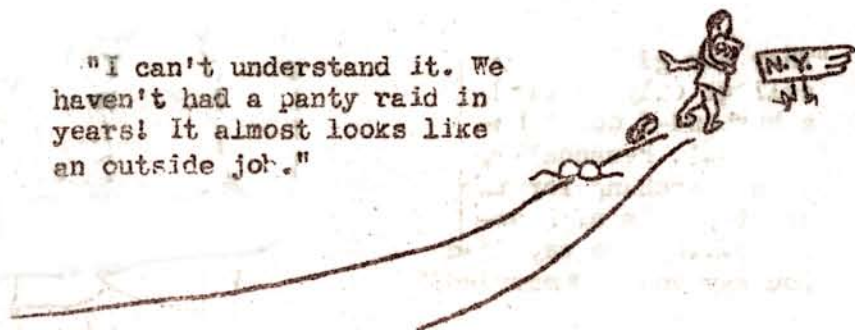

"You magazine guys are all a bunch of hypocrites. You're all afraid to print obscene words! If you believed in freedom of the press you'd print words like

"I'll be glad to pose for you, Mr. Herring, but I didn't know ODD was an art magazine."

"I can't understand it. We haven't had a panty raid in years! It almost looks like an outside job."
